What's New in the S Mail?

The Windows Installer can only install a single MSI in a single user account. This is to ensure that the process working within the user account is isolated from processes working outside the user account, and is not subject to security policies such as restrictions on changing of registry settings. However, as it is not possible to prevent users from changing their own registry settings, the default registry settings are altered to ensure that the process working within the user account is not affected by other users. The registry settings are changed in the following places. All of these are set as user-specific, so can only be altered by a single user. false
